9th International Theatre Campus - 2015 Project "Fool ... Folli nel teatro" - "scholarships" for free attendance -

After eight previous editions that have seen young actors from all over Italy, Greece, Brazil, Russia, Spain, Croatia and Slovenia participate, ANA-Thema Nuova Compagnia Teatro d'Arte will organize the 9th International Theatre Campus. For the first time in the history of the campus, the attendance of a selected number of students will be completely free thanks to a new scholarship initiative. Following the model of the International Campus, 14 scholarships are available thanks to the support of private and public institutions. Anà-Thema Teatro and Teatro della Corte, in cooperation with private entities are making it possible for participants to participate free of charge.

The Campus Project is the result of the organiser's desire to undertake an artistic, social and cultural development programme at high professional standards which will lead to the staging of two plays. Also this year the Campus will collaborate with leading national and international theatres. The scope of the campus is to create a young international working team that will live and study the theatrical arts, and that will experience the life of a "company" sharing the days together. The work will consist of an intensive month of study on the figure of the "fool" and "madness" in the theatre, from the Middle Ages to the contemporary scene. They will be structured in-depth courses and research with several teachers on campus, meetings with professionals and rehearsals open to the public. The highlight of the course will be the debut of the plays in late July in several prestigious locations.
